TAXI IS HOME FOR FAMILY OF SEVEN . . . Benjamin Fox, his wife and five of their seven children occupy Benjamin's cab, which has been their home since they were burned out of their dwelling in New York more than a month ago. The best that housing authorities could offer was an apartment for $80 a month, which Fox says he can't afford.

On the School Scene

By Glenna Nance

Once again the school bells ring, the clatter of locker doors is heard, and the halls of CHS fairly vibrate with the feet of pupils hurrying to their classes. After a week of getting back into the routine of daily work, one student happily mentioned that she is beginning to get anxious for Christmas vacation.

Three new subjects—French, mechanical drawing, and driver's training, have been added to the subjects offered.

Also, two new faculty members have assumed responsibilities in the high school.

As previously, the journalism class will print the weekly column in the Herald. Twelve students have enrolled in the course this year. Several new members have been added to the staff along with six pupils who were on last year's staff. Throughout the school year, we will endeavor to keep our readers informed concerning all school activities, and we hope you will enjoy the column as much as we enjoy preparing it . . .

Opening Enrollment Announced

This fall the total enrollment of Cedarville public school is 485 students. The lower six grades consist of 255 pupils and the high school, 236. In comparison to last year's enrollment, which was 477, this year's enrollment shows a slight increase.

The high school classes average 38 pupils per grade. The eighth and tenth grades tie for first place, each having 41 pupils. The seventh grade has 36 pupils, the freshmen, 40, the juniors, 34, and the seniors, 38.

New Teachers At CHS

With the opening of school last week, the pupils of Cedarville high school welcomed two new instructors.

Miss Marti L. Jones, who teaches English and French, was graduated from Ohio State university and has had no previous teaching experience. Her hobby is music, and while in college she was associated with the publicity department of several dramatic clubs.

When asked to give her first impression of our school, she replied, "I think it is a pretty nice school and it is very well equipped. So far my impression has been good."

Edwin Markeson, who hails from Worthington, Ohio, graduated from Otterbein college, and like Miss Jones, has had no previous teaching experience. He is in charge of all mathematics courses in the high school.

For a hobby, Mr. Markeson likes best to hunt and fish. When asked about his impression of Cedarville, he said, "It looks like a nice place to live." He also has a favorable first-impression of our school.

We all welcome both new faculty members, and hope our association with them will be a long and happy one.

Three new subjects offered. Three new courses are being added to our program this year, which will provide the students with a greater variety of elective subjects.

Mr. Walker will direct the students in driver's training, with classes consisting of twelve pupils each.

Mechanical drawing, replacing industrial arts, will be taught by Mr. Boyer.

Another innovation is a class in French I which will be taught by Miss Jones, a new member of our faculty. Thirty-one pupils have enrolled in this class, and much interest is being shown. Miss Jones plans to stress the development of ability in speaking and writing of modern, everyday French.

Student Senate Organized

This year's extra-curricular activities will be set into form by a new organization in our school known as the student senate. Two students have been elected from each class and from the school clubs to compose the staff. Their first meeting was held during the noon period last Wednesday.

Representatives from each class are as follows: Seventh grade: Sue Cotter and Jackie Lillich; eighth grade, Janice Wilburn and Max Williamson; freshman, Catherine Heck and Charles Snook; sophomore, Jane Furdom and Jack Walsh; junior, Carolyn Stewart and Dean Carzoo; senior, Janet Crumrine and Kent Williamson.

Senators from the school clubs are as follows: Girls chorus, Sally West; band, Janet Gordon and Walker Williamson; FHA, Janet Williamson and Martha Furdom. The FFA group and boys chorus have not yet selected their representatives.

New Pupils Welcomed to CHS

Sixteen new pupils are enrolled in the high school classes this fall. Louise Anderson, a senior, comes from Jolia, Calif.; Jessie Daily, formerly a CHS pupil, has returned to the junior class. Miss Anderson is a commercial major and will assist Miss Hanna with attendance in the afternoon. Jessie will help in the cafeteria during the noon hour.

Eighteen pupils from Clifton are enrolled in the freshman class: Clara Carr, Myron Demen, Catherine Hick, Janice Hopkins, Mary Jane Loubach, Joann Miller, Charles Parkinson, Charles Snook, Carol Spahr, William Whipple and Ann West. The eighth graders are proud to have with them this year James Chadwell from Ewing, Va., Mikal Townsley from Wellsville, Ohio, and Robert Klontz.

Class Officers Are Elected

During a lengthened home room period on Friday, Sept. 8, 1950, the following class officers were elected:

SENIORS: James Turnbill, president; Louise Anderson, vice-president; Glenna Nance, secretary; and Mary Jo Duvall, treasurer.

JUNIORS: Helen Stanforth, president; Stanley Abels, vice-president; Walker Williamson, secretary; and Barbara Whipple, treasurer.

FRESHMEN: Shirley Rogers, president; Eugene Bennington, vice president; David Hertenstein, secretary; and Leona Shaw, treasurer.

EIGHTH GRADE: John McMillan, president; Dale Reed, vice-president; Don Vest, secretary; and Paul Abels, treasurer.

SEVENTH: Linda Gordon, president; Mikal Townsley, vice-president; and Ronald Reese, secretary-treasurer.

Librarian Appointed

This year the school library which was formerly a part of the study hall, has been moved to a separate room next to the study hall. A pupil-librarian will be on hand each period to assist pupils with their reference reading.

The new librarians were appointed Friday of the first week, when Mrs. Chesnut, faculty librarian, called a meeting to discuss with them new rules and regulations.

This year's librarians are as follows: Diana Brightman, first period; Carolyn Stewart, second; Helen Stanforth and Barbara Whipple, third; Nancy Dean, fourth; Jane Furdom, fifth; Joanne Frame, sixth and seventh periods.

FHA Girls Meet

The first FHA meeting was held last Friday morning in the auditorium. The purpose of this meeting was to elect officers for the coming term.

Current officers are: president, Aileen Williamson; vice-president, Fay Huston; secretary, Betsy Raynor; senators, Janet Williamson and Martha Furdom; song leader, Carol Campbell.

A report was given by Orpha Burton on the FHA convention she attended this summer at Camp Muskingum. New ideas on how to earn and manage money were presented to the girls in her report.

The annual fall fair will be held Oct. 6. Details will be announced later.

Music Preview

Music possibilities for 1950-51 are certainly "looking up." Imagine a boys' chorus (pardon us, a men's chorus) with 24 on the roll! Mrs. Foster came in to lunch last Friday with a wide grin. She said she had had a really good time the period before listening to those fellows sing. Keep up the good work, boys, we don't like to see her frown with disappointment.

Our senior band is the largest we have ever known in the local school. With the majorettes, flag-bearers, and director, the organization numbers 49. "The Forty-Niners?" Yes, they will have to resemble those gold-diggers, if they get themselves all uniformed and succeed in paying for the three new glamorous instruments we now own.

We have one new bass clarinet, which is manned by Janet Gordon. Nancy Harris is right out in front with the new trombone, and the bell lyre is being played by JoAnne Sheeley. These instruments are already being heard, and they are well worth the "gold" they will have to "dig!"

The girls' chorus is, as usual, big and full of "vim, vigor, and vitality." We hope the whole music department will be able to excel all previous years of endeavor.

Baseball News

Baseball prospects for the coming season are shaping up slowly. Several preliminary practices have been held, but Monday evening was the first session in which all boys reported. Team members have not had all the necessary fundamentals of the game, as several of the boys are playing for the first time this year. The illness of Coach Walker this week has delayed practice.

The first game was scheduled with Ross high school on the local diamond for Tuesday afternoon, but had to be called off after three innings, because of rain . . .

Missing Athletic Equipment Recovered by School Officials. Part of the missing athletic equipment which was stolen from our athletic rooms last spring after the close of school, was recovered on Tuesday of this week, after Mr. Boyer identified it in Dayton where it was being held by officials. . . .

Mrs. Bullen to Head Girl Scouts For Coming Year

Friday afternoon, at the shelter house, nine mothers met with the Scout leaders, and the committee chairman, Mrs. Nelson Creswell, to reorganize for the coming year.

Although it was hardly a representative group of mothers, with over 75 Scouts and Brownies organized locally, by common consent of those present, the meeting was called to order.

Officers elected for the coming year are: Mrs. Robert Bullen, chairman, Mrs. Cleo Devoe, vice chairman, both of Cedarville, R. R.; secretary, Mrs. Greer McCallister and treasurer, Mrs. Nelson Creswell, both of Cedarville.

Mrs. Paul Taggart of Fairborn, president of the Greene county scout council, and Mrs. Frank Betcher, of Yellow Springs, vice-president met with the group.

The chairman called on Mrs. Taggart, who outlined and explained work of the county council, the requirements to be met, to retain the area charter, held by the county council, and the lists of committees needed to carry on the work.

Mrs. Betcher spoke briefly, complimenting the town. A new Senior Scout troop, and a new Brownie troop are being organized, bringing to a total of troops to six. Leaders and places and time of meeting will be announced later.

The next meeting is to be held in the Scout room, Friday, September 22 at 1:30 p. m. All mothers are urged to be present, for the meeting, and to visit the Scout rooms where the meetings are held.

Sgt. Bowen Wounded in Korea Fighting

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jacobs, who reside on the college farm, have been notified that Mrs. Jacobs' brother, Sgt. Paul E. Bowen, 36, has been wounded in action in Korean warfare.

Sgt. Bowen's children, Jimmy and Patty Ann, pupils in the local school, reside at the Jacobs home.

He is serving with the Fifth Division of the army infantry. Sgt. Bowen has been in service five years, having been stationed in occupied Japan and China at one time. Before his enlistment a year ago he was stationed at a camp in Illinois.

At the outbreak of the Korean war he was transferred from Seaford Barracks in the Hawaiian Islands.

Xenia to Be Headquarters for Resources Office

First step toward setting up administrative headquarters for the sixth section of the Ohio department of natural resources near Xenia was taken this week when Ernest H. Harner, superintendent of Xenia Fish Farm, moved his residence from that site on Old Springfield pike, north of Xenia, to a farm on Winchester road, five miles south of Xenia.

Although plans for establishing district headquarters here are still in the formative stage, Mr. Harner vacated the residence at the farm as that building will be converted into offices, according to tentative plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Harner and family have moved to the former farm of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Devoe which they purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hawkins, who moved to California. Mr. Harner will continue as fish farm superintendent, a position he has held since June 1, 1928, and also plans to continue for the present as a project separate from his conservation work.

Announcement was made several weeks ago that Xenia had been designated as headquarters for the sixth section of the state department of natural resources under a new administrative set-up in the department. Under the new plan the district has been increased from fourteen to sixteen counties as follows: Union, Shelby, Darke, Champaign, Logan, Preble, Butler, Hamilton, Clermont, Brown, Warren, Clinton, Greene, Clark, Miami and Montgomery. His section would be known as the Miami River drainage area.

READ THE CLASSIFIEDS

Commissioners At Convention

County Commissioners Hugh Turnbull and Robert E. Cone and County Engineer Fred R. Lemcke spent last week in Atlantic City, N. J., attending the National association of County officials' convention. County Commissioners President, Arthur Bahns, who planned to make the trip canceled his plans because of illness.

Accidents Set New Figures For County

Greene county's traffic accident and personal injury totals in 1950 are heading for a new record, boosted along by the high rate in Xenia's history.

Nearly 500 automobile accidents have been reported in Greene county in the first eight months this year. This includes reports from state highway patrolmen, the sheriff's office and Xenia police. More than 200 persons have been injured, and about one-fourth of them seriously, and 26 persons were killed. All of these figures represent new yearly records even if traffic mishaps are reduced greatly in the rest of the year.

That means that accidents occur at the rate of about two a day and at least one person is injured in traffic every day. Death strikes a little more often than once every ten days.

August of 1950 went down in records as the worst in history for Greene county highways. In the 31 days last month, nearly 100 accidents, were reported, involving nearly 50 personal injuries and 6 deaths.

Of these, 37 accidents, 6 personal injuries and 22 fatalities were recorded in Xenia; 34 accidents, 30 injuries and 4 deaths were reported by the sheriff's office, and 25 accidents, 12 personal injuries and no fatalities were reported by the highway patrol. The state officers and local deputies cooperate in reporting many accidents, including all the fatal mishaps.

Only one month of 1950 has passed so far without at least one fatal accident. That was June when only about 20 personal injuries were reported, also the low for the year.

In the first week of September, one person was killed and ten were injured in 20 accidents.

Sparr Named to Head Polio County Chapter

The Greene county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis completed its third year with new members, including the chairman, on the five-member executive committee.

Kenneth W. Spahr, cashier of the Citizens National Bank, Xenia, has accepted chairmanship of the chapter, succeeding H. A. Higgins, retired Xenia postmaster, who had headed the local operation ever since its inception 18 years ago.

Other new members are Wilfred D. Jones and Jack D. Jordan, both of Xenia. These three, along with Mrs. Arthur Reynolds and Lester (Bud) Luttrell, will make up the five-member executive board. Mrs. Reynolds is vice-chairman, Mr. Jones, secretary, Mr. Luttrell, treasurer and Mr. Jordan will handle public relations.

Although all five members of the present executive committee are Xenians, the chapter plans to expand the group to embrace each of the county's twelve townships. This, however, will not be undertaken for another month or so.

Francis Strapp of Columbus, state representative of the National Foundation has been working closely with the local chapter in its reorganization program. Mr. Higgins, who relinquished the post because of ill health, had been associated with the drive against polio since the first President's birthday ball in 1932. The National Foundation, which sponsors the March of Dimes campaign, incorporated in 1938 and the ex-postmaster had chaired the local chapter in that organization since then.

Surplus Food Sent to Schools

First shipment of surplus food this fall through state headquarters office of commodity distribution is now available to the schools and other institutions, according to County School Supt. S. O. Elming, in charge of the distribution in Greene county.

Foods available in this shipment, Mr. Elming said, include dried eggs, milk and raisins, canned peaches, corn and plums, peanut butter, cheese, potatoes and butter.

Jackets to Open Grid Season On Saturday

The Cedarville college Yellow Jackets will open their 1950 football season Saturday afternoon when the Polar Bears of Ohio Northern will invade the local gridiron.

The game will not only open the season for the Jackets but will also open the Mid-Ohio league schedule.

Following the O.N. game Saturday, the Jackets will entertain Georgetown and Ashland on the local field on successive Saturday afternoons. Ashland, the second Mid-Ohio league foe of the Jackets will furnish the opposition for the actual homecoming which is set for Sept. 30.

After the Ashland contest, the Jackets will play on foreign field for all four Saturdays in October, traveling to Bluffton, Defiance, Huntington and Wilmington in that order. Bluffton and Defiance are members of the Mid-Ohio.

On the first Saturday in November, the 4th, Friday will show at Cedarville in the windup of the Jackets league season on the following Saturday Rose Poly will be here to end the season.

The Jackets had a scrimmage game Wednesday evening with Wittenburg in final preparation for their opening game with the Polar Bears Saturday.

Mrs. Sticka to Head Auxiliary For Coming Year

Election of officers was held Monday evening when the American Legion Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. John Williamson in Xenia. Officers elected were: president, Mrs. Virgil Sticka; first vice president, Mrs. A. C. Davis; second vice president, Mrs. Harold Strobridge; secretary, Mrs. Lawrence Wadde; and treasurer, Miss Betty Nelson. The executive committee elected were Mrs. Hugh Turnbull and Mrs. Paul Dobbins.

Plans were made for initiation services to be held October 9 at the shelter house in Community Park with Mrs. Frank Anderson of Urbana, former 3rd district president as installing officer. Members are urged to keep this night open to attend. Dues for the coming year are payable now to Mrs. Wadde. Universal military training program was discussed and plans concerning this will be announced later. Following the business meeting a house warming party was in order for the Williamses. The committee in charge of refreshments were Mrs. A. C. Marshall and Mrs. Robert Marshall.

Six Boys Join Scouts; Have Overnight Camp

Six boy scout of troop 68, Cedarville, have received registration cards for their having achieved tenderfoot scout rank. The boys are: Richard Dungan, Paul Steigens, John Kyle, Robert Champ and Jesse Klontz.

The scouts have enjoyed one overnight camping experience and have been very active in newspaper and magazine collecting. They report $12 worth of paper sold and anyone having old papers or magazines may call 6-1631 to have it collected.

Auxiliary to Hold Sale

The Rummage Sale sponsored by the Civic Committee of the American Legion Auxiliary, Saturday, Sept. 16, from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the Clerk's office, Opera House, will be used to support the Teen-Age Canteen, which will have its opening Saturday the 16th at 8 p. m. at the Shelter House.

The committee feels some recreation should be provided for teen-agers and hope the parents as well as the teen-agers will help support this project.

Roy Battles To Address Farm Meeting

Roy Battles, WLW farm program director, will address the Greene county Farm Forum's town and country meeting Monday, Sept. 25, at 6:45 p. m. at Geysers.

The Cedarville township program committee co-chaired by David C. Bradfute and Raymond Cherry will be in charge.

The town and country meeting is an annual event at which business and professional men of the county are guests of Forum members. Advance reservations should be made at the county agents office.

International Dairy Exposition

The second international dairy exposition will be held in Indianapolis at the state fair grounds Oct. 7-14. This is the second time that Indiana will be host to the so called "Worlds Fair of the Dairy Industry."

Last year the show drew over 200,000 people from this country and Canada to see 2633 head of the finest dairy cattle of the world. The Myron Fudge and Son Ayshire herd of Jamestown was in the show last year, we understand they will be entered again this year.

Proven Bull In Devote Herd

L. A. Devoe, Cedarville, R. R. 1, recently received word from Ohio State university that the Ayshire bull Trelawn Warrior (71605) had been proved by records supplied through the Greene county dairy testing program carried on by Glen Charles.

The bull's daughters had an average record of 17 pounds of butterfat over their dams. This animal was proved through cows owned in four different herds located in Ohio and Indiana.

Mr. Devoe's cow, Golden Jewel (327677) had a 305 day record of 392 pounds of butterfat.

Angus Bulls Used In Dairy Herds

Use of Angus bulls in dairy herds is a growing practice in artificial breeding. Some advantages of Angus bulls are:

1. First - calf damage on Holstein heifers is avoided.
2. A fast gaining beef animal from the cross.
3. Angus are used on grade or low producing cows.
4. Hard breeders are easier to settle with more potent angus semen.

Cattle Pay $1 A Pound For Salt

Salt was worth $1 a pound on steer gains at Kansas experiment station. One lot of steers ate 21 pounds of salt apiece in a 327 day growing and fattening period. They outgained cattle that got no salt 65 pounds a head and sold 60 cents a hundred higher. Salt was needed most on summer pasture, where unsalted steers gained 2 pounds a head daily, compared with 2.6 pounds for those that got salt. Each lb. of salt produced 6 pounds of extra gain.

Good Seedbed For Wheat

A good seedbed may mean the difference between a good wheat crop and a poor one, says E. E. Barnes, Ohio agricultural experiment station agronomist. Two conditions are foremost in preparing the seedbed for wheat. The first is a well settled condition; that is, freedom from air pockets and holes between the subsoil and the plow layer. This can best be assured if the land is plowed at least 4 to 6 weeks before seeding. Rather than plow land for wheat only a week or so before seeding, it is usually best not to plow but simply disk the land.

The second condition is a good seedbed for wheat is that it should not be worked down too fine. A mulch of small clods on the surface is desirable because during the winter they will tend to wash around the wheat roots and keep them covered. They also give some protection against soil erosion until the wheat plants get sufficient size to hold the soil in place.

Soil Group at School of MV Association

Three Greene county soil district supervisors and a guest attended a four-day school at Baldwin-Wallace college in Berea, and another group of Greene county supervisors went there last Thursday.

The school for soil conservation district supervisors opened Tuesday and continued through Friday. It is sponsored annually by the Mississippi Valley association in various states. The national association is composed of a group of persons associated with merchandising, industry and shipping and interested in soil conservation.

The group which left Tuesday morning included A. E. Peterson, Miami township, treasurer of the Greene county district; J. B. Lane, Xenia township, president of the state federation; Robert L. Thomas, Beaver Creek township, official delegate, and Lowell Fess,

The Week at the Greene County Court House

Seek Damages

Seeking to collect damages of $5,000 and asking that the defendants be restrained from interfering with the plaintiff's home life, Charles E. and Mary G. Cottrell, Fairborn, R.R. 2, filed suit in common pleas court against Harry S. and Beulah Pant, Fairborn, R.R. 2.

The plaintiffs, represented by J. H. Patrick, Dayton lawyer, declared the two families are neighbors, the Cottrells have three children and Mr. and Mrs. Pant, four children. The Pant children according to the petition, are allowed to roam the neighborhood without supervision and have "caused damage" to the plaintiffs' children and their property, including their garden. Mr. and Mrs. Pant, the plaintiffs claim, also have interfered with a property the Cottrells are constructing.

Seeks Divorce

On grounds of neglect, Betty L. Stevenson, Clifton, a minor, through Mary A. Mustard, filed suit for divorce from William E. Stevenson, Xenia. Married in Xenia Dec. 18, 1948, they have one child whose custody is asked by the mother.

Partition Asked

Partition of Xenia real estate, in which the plaintiff claims a half interest, is asked in a suit filed by Effie Walker Lane, Xenia, against Elsie Mitchener, New Burlington, R. R. 1, and others. The Xenia law firm of Marshall and Marshall represents the plaintiff.

Marriage Licenses

Julius John Gall, Dayton, policeman, and Marian Kathryn Farrell, Fairborn, R. R. 2.

William Alexander Thomas, 425 E. Second St., Xenia, chauffeur, and Erma Gene Harper, 832 E. Market St., Xenia.

Divorce Filed

Lucille Clark, Xenia, R. R. 1, against Lewis, Xenia, neglect and cruelty charged; married June 26, 1950 at Richmond, Ind.; plaintiff asks restoration to her former name of Gilbert.

Alpharetta Miller, Fairborn, R. R. 2, against Rufus, Fairborn, R. R. 2; neglect; married June 29, 1949 at Newport, Ky.; restoration to maiden name of Francis sought.

Foreclosures Asked

The Peoples Building and Savings Company, Xenia, in an action against John E. and Blanche Martin, Cedarville, asks judgment for $12,333.57 and foreclosure on Cedarville property. Co-defendants are Chloe Wiscup, Cedarville; American Loan Finance Company, Springfield; Frances E. Payne, Dayton; Marshall and Marshall, Xenia filed the petition for the Xenia firm.

Grant Judgments

Donald D. Reynolds was granted judgment for $47.70 against Margaret Porter after another defendant, Thurman Middleton, had settled for $50, and Mable James won judgment for $128.50 against Herbert Williams.

Divorce Given

Carl B. Dockmejian was divorced by Ethel R., on her cross-petition charging neglect. She also won custody of their only child.

Neglect was used as grounds for the divorce when Mary Jane Collins was awarded a decree from Ernest McClellan Collins, the common pleas court journal shows.

MV Production Credit Group To Meet 21st

The Miami Valley Production Credit association will hold its 17th annual meeting Thursday evening, Sept. 21 in Xenia Central high school auditorium at 8 o'clock. All Greene county farmers, their families and friends are invited to attend this meeting.

An interesting business session will open the meeting. A report of the operations and progress of the association will be given by secretary-treasurer Martin M. Bonar and two directors will be elected to serve on the board.

The Stardust Minstrels of Tipp City have been engaged for the evening's entertainment. This is an outstanding old time minstrel show with a cast of 50 people featuring the talented Joe Dunn at the piano with his magic fingers. You will thrill to the way Joe loves to make a piano talk. You may have already seen him on television. Lucille Milner will serve as interlocutor. She is a nimble witted gal who really keeps the end men in line and the show rolling.

This will be a meeting which you will long remember and a good one to bring your neighbors and friends to.

Sheldon-Turner Vows Exchanged Tuesday Evening

The Cedarville United Presbyterian church was the scene of an early fall wedding Tuesday evening when Miss Beatrice Turner, near Cedarville, became the bride of Richard H. Sheldon, Englewood, Colo.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lucy Turner, Clifton pike. Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Sheldon of Englewood, Colo., are the parents of the bridegroom.

Palms, clusters of bittersweet and a basket of white dahlias and asters, flanked by two seven-branch candelabra, provided the nuptial setting.

Dr. R. A. Jamieson, pastor of the church, read the double ring service following a thirty-minute musical program. Miss Lena Hastings was organist and Miss Kathleen Evans and Miss Mildred Williamson, were vocalists. Miss Evans' solos were "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning" and Miss Williamson sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Vern Tinsler, Morley, Mich., sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Kathleen Adams was bridesmaid. They wore gowns of gold faille with overskirts of toast colored net, styled with fitted bodices and ballerina-length skirts. Their hairdresses were fashioned of toast colored veiling and they carried colonial bouquets of flowers in various hues.

The bride given in marriage by her brother, Milton Turner, South Solon, appeared in a ballerina-length gown of aqua Chantilly lace over aqua taffeta, styled with a bolero jacket with long sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid and wore a band of white rosebuds in her hair.

The bridegroom's father served as best man and ushers were Gregg Turner, brother of the bride; Kenneth Bull, South Charleston, the bride's cousin, and Kenneth Wilburn.

More than 100 guests attended a reception in the church parlors following the service. Hostesses were, Mrs. Robert Armstrong, Fairborn, and Mrs. Fred Beck, Clifton, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Milton Turner and Mrs. Gregg Turner, her sisters-in-law.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Turner appeared in a gown of rust tissue, faile with which she wore a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Sheldon, the bridegroom's mother chose a gown of silver net over satin and her flowers were red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon left Cedarville Wednesday for Englewood, Colo., to establish their home.

The bride is a graduate of Cedarville high school, attended

Springfield Business college and for the last year has been employed by Pacific Coast Employers' Insurance Company in Denver, Colo. Mr. Sheldon is an accountant for Socony Vacuum Oil Company in Denver.

WINNING POINT

(A Short Story)
By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON

COACH CRAIG was such a staid old goat he wouldn't understand any way; he wouldn't recognize romance if some one pointed it out to him. That's why he never stopped wondering why Diane lost the tennis match.

Diane had for three years been captain of the girls' varsity. She was a white flash of speed and endurance, a personification of grace and skill.

It was Diane who put the old college up where it ought to be in the annals of sport. She became an idol on the campus, worshipped and idolized by the male sector.

But always her passion for tennis, she loved it, a victory left her elated; defeat provoked a black mood. Fortunately the defeats were the season over with, that some one suggested a mixed match for the benefit of the school. That is, the co-ed would play the men champs. It was a great idea, because every one knew that Diane would be picked to meet Lance, and every one thought it would be such a whiff of a good game.

Coach Craig didn't object, and Lance and Diane couldn't very well refuse, when so many eager admirers pleaded with them.

It all turned out to be a more important affair than was at first planned. Outsiders got wind of it and came to be admitted. And he didn't like to pay, the faculty had tickets printed and sold them for 50 cents.

"The girls' a shade better," Coach Craig told his young assistant, "Powers" "He can trim him. Watch," he confided, "is going to mean a good deal. Old Men Haidigan's going to be here."

Powers' eyes widened. "Henigan of the national committee? Say, that's a dirty trick on Diane. Suppose she loses, after her school record. It may mean she won't get that big prize."

"She won't lose," Craig said confidently. "She's better than Wilthrop."

But because Powers was young and could feel as young people feel, he strolled over to Diane and mentioned the fact that Mike Henigan was in the audience. She smiled at him, and nodded her thanks, and went out to meet Lance.

It was a pretty close game, as all the spectators had wished for. Each captured a set and went evenly along in a third. Lance had five games to Diane's four, but every one felt pretty sure the girl would take her opponent for an even five. Lance was serving, with only one point to go to collect the game, set and match.

He swung his racket with beautiful form, a handsome picture, features grim and determined. Diane, waiting with outward calmness, felt the tenderness of the moment, sensed the spell that held the audience in its grip. She saw the grimace on Lance's face, the fierce desire in his eyes. It meant so much to him.

Coach Craig, she knew, was watching her. She sensed the confidence on his face, knew that Henigan was in the stands watching Lance's every movement. Then the ball like a white plummet, came whistling over the net. A perfect serve. Diane stepped forward to meet it. Her racket swung. The audience leaned forward, held their breaths—and suddenly broke into a frenzy of shouting.

Diane had stumbled. Fallen forward. Caught herself. Missed. The game, the match, belonged to Lance. Coach Craig groaned. Henigan shrugged indifferently.

Coach Craig was a staid old goat. He wouldn't understand anyway. But Dave Powers, who was young and could feel as young people feel, understood. He knew that Diane had stumbled on purpose, and that Lance Winthrop was tremendously happy because he'd won—and that Diane was happy, too.

He swung his racket with beautiful form, a handsome picture, features grim and determined.

few, the victories many. It began to look as if at the conclusion of her college career Diane would step into an important role as a national star.

That, of course, was all before Lance Winthrop appeared. Lance had transferred up north from a southern college to finish his senior year. His luggage consisted of a carpet bag and a tennis racket. Inside the carpet bag were newspaper clippings and testimonials which pronounced him the greatest intercollegiate tennis star of the South. Coach Craig looked the boy over and nodded. He was a tall, lanky lad, tall and dark with brown eyes and a mouth that held an habitual smile.

From that moment the old college had another idol to worship, another star on which to pin its loyalty. The school became famous. Experts came and watched Lance and Diane in action. They talked with Coach Craig and mentioned contracts and large figures.

The future looked bright, especially so because Lance and Diane fell in love. Romance added glaze, or, heightened interest. They were a good looking couple, well suited and peppy. Everyone envied them. It was along about the last of May, with commencement not far away and the last tennis match of

A headline in the Wilmington newspaper says: "Bull Wanted. Is it possible that they have to do that kind of advertising south of the border?"

The Siriono Indians of Bolivia cannot count above three and have no words denoting time beyond "yesterday" and "tomorrow." To a lot of people nearer home that would be considered bragging.

A funeral director in a neighboring town buys advertising space (always a wise thing to do) in the newspaper to say that he will furnish palm leaf fans to any and all who desire them. This includes, I suppose, one or two to toss in when final arrangements are made for anybody suspected of needing them on arrival at the Destination.

If you want children to grow up, slow up.

Ross Township School News

The enrollment of the school has gone approximately over 12 more students this year than last with the entire enrollment at about 190. The first week is finished and everybody is in full swing now.

The sophomores are planning the annual party to welcome the freshmen and they will furnish the refreshments and the freshmen will provide the entertainment. The juniors are getting ready to order their class rings and they with their advisor Mr. Frische are making plans to make money to help pay for them.

Mrs. Haines, senior class advisor, is busy going over the record cards checking credit requirements for graduation. The seniors are getting ready to order their graduation announcements.

Mr. VanDyne has had several meetings with the band members and several new members are trying out for band. The school is anxiously awaiting for their first program which will be in the very near future.

Mr. Irvin has had baseball practice every day and several members of last year's championship team have graduated but Mr. Irvin still feels that with a lot of hard work they can still have a good team. Their first game as held Tuesday with Cedarville at Cedarville but was called at the end of the 3rd inning because of rain. The score of this time was 5 to 1 in favor of Ross. "They think Mr. Walker made it rain." However this game will have to be replayed. Their next game will be with Spring Valley at Spring Valley on Tuesday.

The first annual meeting of the P. T. A. will take place Tuesday evening, Sept. 19, at 8 p. m. at the school. The parents and the friends are urged to be present to meet the new teachers and greet the returning teachers. This meeting is very important and everyone interested in their school should be present. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

MRS. SPAHR HOSTESS TO CEDRINE CLUB

Monthly meetings of the Cedrine Club were resumed following the summer vacation Thursday afternoon when twenty-six members and four guests were entertained at the home of Mrs. Ralph O. Spahr.

Highlighting the meeting, at which Mrs. Spahr was assisted by Mrs. James Beam and Mrs. J. M. Bull, was a review of Janet Whitney's book, "The Life of Abigail Adams," given by Mrs. Fred Townsley. Program chairmen were Mrs. S. C. Wright, Mrs. Paul H. Creswell and Mrs. J. C. Marshall.

Intimate facts in the book, taken from diaries and letters, pictured early history in this country and described travels of Mrs. Adams and her family in Europe and England. It also related experiences of Mrs. Adams as the first hostess in the White House.

Members responded to roll call with "Vacation Echoes." At the close of the meeting an ice course was served.

IT'S BEEN FIVE YEARS

It's been five years, plus a few days, since Japan surrendered with a simple ceremony abroad the Missouri. At that ceremony General MacArthur said, "Let us pray that peace be restored to the world and that God will preserve it always." Look what the five years have brought!

CROWDED SCHOOLS

Where to put them that's the big school problem, in addition to how to pay the teachers and the other expenses. But nothing is so important in all America as the schools, not even winning wars. Here is Greene County with our 50 per cent increase in population—the highest in Ohio—the school housing problem is already critical. At the moment the local school can handle the pupils, at the rate school enrollment is going up very soon we'll have to build a larger school house. The schools are the No. 1 item on every agenda the country has.

SMASHUPS

The highways become more and more crowded. Trucks and passengers jam-packed them. Main highways present a parade of vehicles, and a continued story of mishaps. Every newspaper has its tales of wrecks and accidents. Things go wrong mechanically, drivers make errors in judgment, some are discourteous and careless. Every day, everywhere, by every means the lessons of safety should and must be taught—lessons on caution, on courtesy and obedience to all traffic signs and rules. We must stop this life-taking, property-damaging, discourteous behavior on the public highways.

JOE HANLEY

This writer first learned to know Joe Hanley more than a quarter of a century ago. At that time he was pastor of a small church in Perry, a northeastern New York town. He was a popular speaker over that state and capitalized on his fame by entering politics. He has remained a favorite with the people of New York by earning their approval. Stepping aside that his chief may continue to be governor of the state (they hope) he plans to run for the senate. No man can poll as many votes in the metropolis of New York City as he will, all agree. That, friends, is what America means, and what it must continue to mean the possibility of any honest, reliable, able person climbing to the top in public esteem and favor by sheer ability. Nice fellow, Joe Hanley.

INFLATION

Silly talk, this expression of fear about inflation being just around the corner. Inflation is not just around the corner. Inflation is here—in the grocery, at the filling station, in the clothing store, at the coal office—inflation is here. You've tried to make $5 buy the food $2 used to buy, or $6 pay the hotel bill $2.50 used to pay, or $10 buy the public transportation $6 used to buy—or any sum of money do what half the sum used to do? That's inflation in its most recognizable form. The president has suggested that shortly the average family will have an income of $12,000 a year. That is not a promise, it is a threat. What the average family craves is a $2,000 income that will buy what they bought when they had it.

A SURE WAY OUT

One of the most inane positions to take is that a person or a product is essential. Individuals are expendable and suppliable. Substitutes take the place of commodities rapidly. Once upon a time the anthracite coal industry considered itself essential to the very existence of the people of New York and Philadelphia. It behaved itself unseemly. Result—those cities turned to bituminous coal and hard coal was soon begging for consideration which was never regained. Soft coal has lost out in the same fashion everywhere. The coal industry drove itself out of business, or nearly so. There is no surer road to ruin than self sufficiency and an attitude of indispensability.

Be sure to register. USA has had strikes this year but there has been none of the horrors that once marked them.

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

James, Leader of the Jerusalem Church

Lesson for September 17: Acts 15: 13-20; Galatians 2:9-12
Memory Selection: James 1:22

IN THE GREAT CONTRAST between his early and later life, James may remind us of the two preceding lessons. Like Peter and John Mark, James made good in his later life. Jesus had four brothers and at least two sisters. One brother was James. He and others of the family did not at first realize the greatness of their brother. Not until after the resurrection did they become Christians.

James became known as the Just. As head of the mother church in Jerusalem he had the opportunity of making a decision that saved Christianity from being a small Jewish sect. Twenty years had passed since the resurrection. The church in Antioch had some Gentile members. A discussion arose as to whether or not the Jewish rites, still followed by Jewish converts, should be imposed upon Gentiles. The Antioch Church sent Paul and Barnabas to inquire of the mother church in Jerusalem.

James handed down the decision that Jewish rites should not be required of Gentile converts. They were to abstain from pollution of idolatry and gross immorality. Though James never quite overcame his Jewish prejudices, the decision he handed down freed the Christian church to begin its career as a world-wide church.

Let us in our churches today be firm and uncompromising in the fundamentals of our faith, but let us be tolerant in non-essential things.

There is no such thing as being too careful when driving. School children do not always obey safety rules. But we should.

Corn cutting is late this year, and the cool early September will make it still later. Mechanical pickers have just about supplanted other corn harvesting methods.

Though our engines of destruction are capable of wiping out large areas, populations included, yet the Almighty still has the mightiest Hand. His powers in earthquakes, tornadoes and volcanic eruptions continue to make us, whom He created a little lower than angels, quite feeble as destructions.

Our youngsters keep on, and in the sharpest competition with other young farmer folk from over Ohio bring home awards for super exhibits. The state fair—Ohio's clearing house for final degrees of supremacy in production—gave many of our young folk the highest prizes. Nothing in the outlook on the future is as meaningful as this.

A 50% NATION
Figures—ghostly from a patriotic standpoint—show that at the last general election slightly more than 50% of the eligible voting populace in the country took the trouble to go to the polls. That mere statement is in itself a reprimand to all Americans. Now it is stated with authority that only about 35% of the whole population of the United States of America belongs to church, or even attends church. Columns could be written on both these statements. Suppose you take over and write a column or so.

"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

Appreciation Pays Off

TODAY'S PIECE is for those in authority who find that disciplinary measures have failed. And it comes to you from experts in handling people.

The first principle that every one of these experts propounds, in different words, of course, is that unless a person is happy in what you have persuaded him to do you are getting only 50 per cent efficiency.

William James, eminent professor of Harvard University, seemed to have thought that you can best get the most out of a person, that you can most easily persuade him to "do it your way" by showing him appreciation, for said Mr. James, "The deepest principle in human nature is the craving to be appreciated."

Charles M. Schwab, one-time chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, said that the best way to influence people is by making them happy in what they are doing—

When Napoleon created the legion of honor, he did it to show his appreciation of his men. Did those men care about the bits of metal in the little crosses they received? Certainly not. But they did care about the approval of their emperor; they were happy in serving him; they craved his praise, and those little crosses were the symbol.

Henry Clay Risner used Napoleon's technique when he wanted to influence the conduct of the American doughboy. He had been told by General James Harbord that in his opinion the two million American soldiers in France were the cleanest and most idealistic group of men with whom he had ever come in contact. So Henry Clay Risner took occasion to repeat that statement to those men after time. It made them happy. He knew that that was a sure-fire way of inspiring them to be clean and idealistic.

One more: Warden Lawes, for 20 years Warden of Sing Sing prison, told me once that he had in nearly every instance found the level that man responded in kind. (And since every man, even though he may have committed a crime, has good in him, he was truly at the time what the Warden seemed to believe him to be.)

So in dealing with people, with your children, with your helpers, make them happy by treating them as if you expect the best of them, and you will be likely to get the best.

With a Buckeye In Congress

CLARENCE J. BROWN Writes

The house held only two nominal sessions last week while the senate continued to clean up its legislative calendar. If the plans of administration leaders work out the conference reports on the new tax bill and the so-called security bill, as well as other legislative odds and ends, will be cleaned up by the end of the week. While House Speaker Rayburn would like to see a sine die adjournment, in all probability the congress will recess until after the election, subject to recall in case of emergency.

The Korean and international situations have caused such grave concern in high official circles as to bring about a serious discussion of the advisability of forming a coalition cabinet to meet the crisis. It is rumored that Republicans may be named to succeed Defense Secretary Johnson and Secretary of State Acheson. It is argued such an arrangement would bring greater unity. Undoubtedly it would also quiet the storm of criticism which has been developing over recent blundering and bungling in our diplomatic and defense efforts.

The conference committee named to work out the differences between the house and senate versions of the new tax measure is expected to report a compromise bill closely resembling the

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. James Montgomery of Blackwell, Okla.: "I remember the high snow drifts back in Pennsylvania when the weather was below zero and folks would hitch horses to bobsleds and go to a neighbor's to spend the evening. The women sewed, carpet tags or quilted while their men talked politics and the children popped corn and cracked nuts. At 10 o'clock a supper was served. After supper we'd return to the parlor for a Bible reading, a prayer and a hymn before going home, tired but happy.

From Andrew Manning of Sandusky, O.: "I'm a Special American war veteran and my wife and I remember some of the songs that were popular in my soldiering days like 'Break the News to Mother', 'There's a Good Time Coming in the Old Town Tonight' and 'My Sweetheart Went Down With the Maine.'"

From Mrs. Willie A. Emanuel of Lumberton, N. C.: Here are some of the old-time songs I remember: 'Sweet Home', 'Bill Bailey, Won't You Please Come Home?', 'I'm Nobody's Darling', 'Away Down South Where the Palmetto Grows', 'Swing Low, Sweet Chariot', 'The Old Folks at Home', 'The Swanee River', 'The Dixie Melodrama', 'The Yellow Rose of Texas', 'The Star-Spangled Banner', 'The Battle Hymn of General Sherman', 'The March of the Minstrels', 'The Goodbye Song', 'The Home Sweet Home' and it made a lasting impression on me.

With more than 62 million Americans already gainfully employed, and the nation embarking upon a greatly enlarged program of defense production, a manpower shortage is rapidly developing, wages are increasing, and strikes are growing more prevalent. While the president now has the power to control wages and prices, he is not expected to take action until after the election. As a result the cost of many commodities is expected to jump in price soon and the end is not in sight.

In a speech in the U. S. senate last week, Senator Schoeppel of Kansas charged that when secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman and Commissioner of Reclamation Michael W. Straus were sworn into office the paragraph requiring them to certify and swear that I do not advocate nor am I a member of any political party that advocates the overthrow of the government of the United States by force or violence had been stricken from the oaths they took. In replying to the charges Secretary Chapman insisted "it is not customary" to require such information of employees in the department of the interior. However, is just happens the law does require each federal official to take such an oath as to his connections and beliefs. Certainly no man who is unwilling to take such an oath is fit to be a member of the president's cabinet. Perhaps it is about time we start checking up a bit closer at home.

General Hershey of the National selective service system has senate tax bill. It will not contain a provision for taxing excess profits, but an agreement was reached in the senate that after proper hearings have been held, 1951 excess profits will be taxed. Probably next year's tax bill will apply to excess corporation earnings during the last three or four months this year.

President Truman's recent attack on the marine corps has certainly stirred up a hornet's nest. After numerous members of the house and senate, and the marine corps league, demanded the president publicly retract his statement, he formally apologized. No president, other than Mr. Truman, has ever made such an unvarnished and untimely remark about one of the most famous fighting organizations in the history of the world. Why the commander-in-chief of our armed forces would make such a statement about the marine corps or any other military group at this time is difficult to understand.

Seemingly the United States air forces are a little more disinterested in selecting its officers than he people of some congressional districts are in electing their representatives. It is understood the air corps has refused to call to active duty a reserve officer who is also a well-known left-wing member of congress. Evidently he is not to be trusted as a member of our armed forces.

Beginning on Sept. 23 an international trade conference will be held in Torquay, England. While numerous American industries and many American working men have already been seriously affected by competition from foreign goods imported into this country under the reciprocal trade agreements act. It is understood the American delegation to the Torquay conference is prepared to agree to the lowering of the American tariffs or import duties on some three thousand additional items of foreign manufacture. Such new trade agreements may not prove to be injurious immediately, but sooner or later will cause both labor and industry in this country a great deal of trouble.

Of course we cannot take a chance, and the President will get what he requests, but the threat today is the same threat that existed six months ago. I would vote more enthusiastically to double the dollars if we could also double the intelligence at the top.

IN the matter of economic controls we have the same conflict. The Federal Reserve Board con-announced 70 thousand more American youth will be conscripted in November, and another 100 thousand in December. President Truman has stated every effort will be made to increase the armed manpower of the United States to the three million figures as quickly as possible.

WASHINGTON REPORT

BY SENATOR ROBERT A. TAFT

THE Korean crisis has made crystal clear the conflicts within the Administration and the lack of a directing principle. This country is badly in need of an Administration with clear principles on foreign policy, military policy, economic policy, and some ability to direct a practical, common-sense program in accordance with such fixed principles. The conflict in foreign policy is the most obvious. Secretary Acheson apparently favors the preparation of an aggressive war against Russia, and he is promptly called down by Secretary Acheson. General MacArthur asserts the necessity of defending Formosa as a key to our whole position in the Far East, and he is promptly rebuked by President Truman with the acquiescence of Secretary Acheson. Now we are not certain whether we are going to defend Formosa or not. The Secretary Acheson of today is in complete conflict with the Secretary Acheson of January, when he announced that our line of defense was Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines, and not one step beyond.

We see the same conflict in military policy. On February 2, 1950, Secretary Johnson announced that this country's defenses were stronger at that time than at any time since 1945, and were getting tougher every day—"I want Joe Stalin to know that if he starts something at four o'clock in the morning, the fighting power and strength of America will be on the job at five o'clock in the morning." At that time he evidently thought that an army costing $14,000,000,000 a year was sufficient to accomplish that purpose. Today the President wants $30,000,000,000 a year and Secretary Johnson is privately talking about $45,000,000,000 a year.

Under conditions as they are today only a Republican Congress can be independent. Only by the election of a Republican Congress can the people hope for some kind of consistent action from an Administration divided within itself.

When we were told that the Korean attack was a complete surprise, the Central Intelligence Agency was subjected to criticism but its representatives claim that it made the proper report of facts in North Korea. Now it is said that there was no proper agency to evaluate the intelligence collected.

The entire Government seems to be like a man who can feel one thing with his right hand, another thing with his left, and can see other events before his eyes, but has no brain in his head to put together his various sensations and develop a consistent course of action.

Under conditions as they are today only a Republican Congress can be independent. Only by the election of a Republican Congress can the people hope for some kind of consistent action from an Administration divided within itself.

Successful Parenthood

BY MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS
Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

HOW MANY TIMES a day do you say "No" to your children? Sally's mother overheard her daughter saying to a playmate, "There's no sense asking my mother. She always says 'No.'" Thus prompted, the mother under discussion decided to count the number of "No's" she actually did deliver each day. And though she doesn't divulge her exact count, she says it was astonishingly high.

She then began to weigh the decisions she had made and found that a good many of the things that she had forbidden could have been permissible at least with modifications. Sally couldn't play in the mud with her good dress on, but why not? Of course it may be a bit of extra trouble to load a tray and carry it outside, but a happy youngster loves to help. And often even a customarily disinclined vegetable is eaten with relish as part of a festive picnic.

Sometimes we say "No" just because a child's requests seem ridiculous. But children usually have a reason for doing things or wanting to do them. One day Susan asked her mother if she could wear her cowboy boots to school. A rather feminine little girl, fond of ruffled dresses, Susan had always loved wearing patent leather Mary Jane pumps to school. Her cowboy boots were for after-school play. This new request baffled her mother, until the child explained that the boy who occupied the seat behind her kicked her heels. Rather than fiddle to the teacher or fight with the boy, Sue had come up with this resourceful solution.

Disapproving too quickly often has another disadvantage. It is likely to cut us off from a great deal of enjoyment of our children. The picnic, for example, though first appearing troublesome, would probably have turned out to be fun. Assured of at least a listening and considerate audience, children will be more inclined to tell parents their thoughts. The world, seen through the eyes of the young, is a very different and magically enchanting place. The chance to see it thus can be a mother's reward for trying to understand her child's requests.

From the standpoint of discipline a No must be carefully considered so that parents can stick to it. For there are times when undesirable activities must be checked. These are times to be definite and firm. This is particularly important in the early years when a child is getting his first ideas of human relations. Then he needs to learn that parents can be depended on to mean what they say.

It has been discovered in Washington that the deficit will be only about $3 billion this year. You've got to be rich, folks to have a deficit like that.
